Chinese Law Students Society

introducing the
Chinese Law Students Society
of the University of Sydney

UNIVERSITY OF SYDNEY UNION

Welcome to CLSS

Thanks for joining the Chinese Law Students Society (CLSS)! You have just joined one of the fastest growing and vibrant societies here on campus.

Our goal here at CLSS is to make all our members' time here at uni better, with fun outings, useful career events, and revision sessions.

Following hot on the heels of our events in 2005, this year will feature an expanded set of events while providing our core events improved through the experience of having run them the previous year.

Our Annual General Meeting will be held soon in November. We encourage you to come along and run for a position or express your views on how the society is going – interaction with members is important to the society.

About the Society

CLSS is registered with the University of Sydney Union, meaning that it is accessible to any of the over 40,000 students that attend the University.

Who are the society's members?

The society's members are individuals who are united by a common interest in law. Drawing on the diverse nature of the student population, CLSS members utilise their different backgrounds, skills and interests to contribute actively to their society.

CLSS is an inclusive society that works in the equal interest of all members and sponsors. It is run by students, for students, in a democratic, fair and accountable manner.

What's on in 2006

Introductory BBQ

The introductory BBQ is held close to the beginning of the semester, and it's a great way to meet new people or catch up with old friends while eating some delicious food. This is an opportunity for the society to chat to the new members to see how they're going and what the society can do.

Trivia Night

Pit your intellect against others and win fantastic prizes!

Beach Party and Day Trips

University life shouldn't just be about study! Our beach parties and day trips are a popular way to have fun on a day out with other people like you. With subsidies provided for by your Union, coming to club events like the ones organised by CLSS are the best way to make the best use of your Union membership.

Revision Sessions

CLSS runs revision sessions every semester for a large range of undergraduate law subjects. These sessions allow you to go through past papers with other students studying your course; by meeting with others, you not only get to expand your network, it provides an effective method of revision because are required to elucidate your understanding of the topics at hand. This year, CLSS will also be trialling holding sessions in the middle of semester for continuous revision, as well as more innovative techniques such as mootng.

Online self-help

CLSS also runs an online self-help program to assist you in academic, university life and many other aspects. Our executives would love to help you, and please email us if you need to discuss anything with us.

Career Sessions

Meet people who have worked in law or other areas, and find out information about working in Australia and overseas. CLSS aims to promote a global perspective of law and shares with its members various opportunities of working abroad.
